

How grants can help your forestry business

Free, specialist support is now available to forestry businesses from the Forestry Commission England to help them access Rural Development Programme (RDPE) funding.

Do you want to expand your forestry business?

Forestry businesses can apply for funding via a number of different RDPE grant schemes – Growth Programme, LEADER, Countryside Productivity and Countryside Stewardship. These grants typically cover up to 40% of the total costs for a project that enhances the potential of woodland or adds value to a forestry product. Money is available for a variety of activities including woodland harvesting, extraction and small-scale processing kit, as well as for creating alternative products and developing new forest technologies.

Access free, specialist advice

The Forestry Commission is running a series of local events – including application masterclasses and ‘pie and pint’ evenings – for forestry contractors and owner-producers to provide a detailed overview of the grants available and practical advice on how to apply. For further information, including a full list of these events, see: forestry.gov.uk/other-rdpe

Develop your business plan

Further one-to-one support from the Forestry Advisory Consortium England (FACE) is also available in some cases to help forestry businesses identify the right technical solution and grant. Last year more than 60 businesses were given free business planning, financial forecasting and legal advice, helping them with the paperwork to create a ready to go application.
